It came, it rocked, it made everyone laugh till they cried. If one had to sum up PC.com's 7th Awards Night in 11 words, the above would be it. The Deputy Minister of Energy, Water and Communications, Dato' Shaziman Abu Mansor, officiated the event.

In his speech, he said that strategies like MyICMS 886 are aimed at promoting growth of ICT infrastructure, products and services. The objective is to deliver the ubiquitous service environment to support new modern and digital lifestyles. "As such, it is good to know that local publications like PC.com has stepped forward to not only benchmark consumer ICT offerings in the country, but to award these players for their achievements and offer others a platform to better perform and offer quality products. I congratulate PC.com in their endeavour to push the ICT industry and players to a higher plane," he said.

Among the sponsors who participated were Acer, Tele Dynamics, Zyxel, Tiger Beer, Tronic Distribution, Fitness First, Aztech, S Pearl Lain, Samart i-Mobile, Fuji Xerox, Nokia, EAI Technology, Emirates, Samsung, Palm, Bluedot Systems and Pearson

Malaysia. The atmosphere was brightened up by dynamic skits by Douglas Lim and Rashid Salleh.

The very, very lucky Grand Prize winner, Chong Joon Sian, took home a Media Centre PC worth RM3,999, while Michael Tang from Digital Paper walked away with a RM3,488 Bluedot notebook.

Only one out of nearly 75,000 readers ballot forms from all corners of the nation was chosen to receive this prize. It was PC.com's way of showing thanks to its loyal readers, who never failed to participate and voice out the brands, products and services that they wanted to see more of.
